

THE RALEIGH NEWS.

VOL. XVI.—144

RALEIGH, N. C., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1880

$5.00 PER ANNUM

TELEGRAPHIC TOAST.

SECRETARY SHERMAN BEFORE WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE.

Half Million Pounds for the Irish Poor-Foreign Matters and Other Late Telegraphic News.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Secretary Sherman appeared before the House committee on Ways and Means this morning and gave his views at length upon the refunding question. White, advocating in general terms, the adoption of the 4 per cent. bonds. The Secretary thought that some modifications as to the time and interest might be made, and in reply to questions by the chairman of the committee, admitted that his views had been somewhat modified, and he was disposed to concede the possibility of negotiating at par the bonds bearing a lower rate of interest than 4 per cent. The committee will meet to-morrow to take final action upon the question of refunding.

North Carolina Census Supervisors.
WASHINGTON, D. C., February 11.—The Senate in executive session, to-day confirmed the following nominations to be Supervisors of Census, as follows: North Carolina, First District: Henry D. Root; Second District: Joseph A. Caldwell; Third District: John Stanford; (this nomination was made in place of Walker Meares, withdrawn); Fourth District: Samuel L. Patterson.

Three Million for Ireland.
LONDON, Feb. 11.—It is reported in the lobby of the House of Commons that the Baroness Buxton's bill intends giving half a million pounds to afford a permanent relief for Ireland.

The Vote on the Home Rule Amend.
LONDON, Feb. 11.—On the division on the home rule amendment, four Irish liberals, twenty-four liberals and thirty-eight home rulers voted in the minority. Davitt, Killen and others, members of the Irish Land League were present in the galleries during the debate.

A $229,000 Church Burned.
NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—The Trinity Episcopal Church, corner of First and one hundred and twenty-fifth street, was totally destroyed by fire this morning. The building cost $125,000 dollars and the organ $100,000. In front of the organ was a magnificent piece of oval stained glass work, which cost $4,000. The property was insured for about $60,000.

Foreign Flashes.
PARIS, Feb. 11.—The Government will to-day make a formal declaration in the Chamber of Deputies that it opposes the plenary amnesty.

London, Feb. 11.—A Berlin dispatch says: "The German press expresses no sympathy with the movement of the Swiss Government to erect new fortifications on the French frontier for the necessity of preventing the French from making an invasion into Germany through Switzerland is universally recognized here."

Going to Strike.
BIRMINGHAM, Feb. 11.—The Burying weavers representing thirty thousand looms in accordance with a previous resolution, to-day give notice that the strike would begin the 25th unless a compromise is reached in the meantime, when sixty cotton mills will be idle.

Republican Coalition With the Readjusters to End.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The Republican Executive Congressional Committee passed a resolution yesterday that the Virginia Republican Committee be notified not to form any coalition with the Readjusters, and that the national committee will endorse this resolution. The effect will be to destroy the present union of the Readjusters and Republicans, which gave the new party control in the State. There will then be three distinct parties. General Mahone having announced his policy of making a new party, and his own organization, and the support of the Republicans being withdrawn, the Readjusters will be in the minority and the Democrats the strongest of the three. With the adjournment of the present legislature, which will occur probably in March, the power of the Readjusters will cease. Deprived of their control over the patronage of the State they will be unable to give the negroes or other Republicans any offices, and thereby hold their allegiance. The Republicans believe that with power and control of the Congressional districts, viz., those of Jorgenson, Goode, Cabell and Beale. Therefore the National Republican Committee will make every possible effort to rally all their strength in these districts which will weaken the Readjusters. It is thought that finally General Mahone will accept the ruling of the Democratic party. This is the first event which makes General Mahone's action with the Democrats in the Senate certain.

Ship Damaged.
PLYMOUTH, Feb. 10.—The Orient liner Chimborazo, hence for Australia, has returned in consequence of the damage sustained in a gale off Isle of Ushant. Two people were washed overboard, two killed and seventeen injured. The steamer lost six boats and sustained other damages.

The Virginia State Debt.

RICHMOND, Feb. 9.—The dominant party of the General Assembly, known locally as the readjusters, agreed upon in caucus and to-day presented to the Senate a bill to re-establish the public credit. It reduces the principal of the debt, and eliminates the heretofore-familiar way of re-arranging and compound interest debt from $32,000,000 to $19,663,000, and the rate of interest to three percent, forbids collectors of revenue receiving tax-receivable coupons cut either from censors of 10-48, and provides that one-third of the net receipts of the state go into the treasury to the credit of the public debt as re-established. The coupons from the new bonds are not to be receivable for taxes nor exempt from taxation. A loan of $1,000,000 is authorized, certificates issued thereon to be sold to taxpayers at 50 cents on the dollar, and to be received in payment of taxes. This act is to be submitted to the people for ratification in November.

Not Recognized by the Speaker.

Speaker Randall yesterday refused to recognize the 100 greenbacker, Mr. Weaver, who wanted to suspend the rules and have an inflation bill voted upon. The Speaker recognized only such members as were instructed by committee to report bills.

THE GRANT BOOM SOUTH.

A Plan to Keep Sherman From Getting the Southern Delegates.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The prominent leaders of the Grant movement among the Southern Republicans have hit upon a novel method to defeat Sherman's scheme of getting the votes of the delegates from the Southern States to the Chicago Convention. A private circular is being sent to leading Southern Republicans who are not holding Federal offices, recommending that the State Conventions, when selecting delegations to the Chicago Convention, give the votes at the Chicago Convention, giving, when they decline to vote, the assurance that their States cannot help elect the candidate they ought not to be prominent factors in choosing the candidate. This is done because the Grant men believe that Sherman, with the Radical party in the South, will be able to secure a majority of 216 votes of the Southern delegates. The circular was written by Judge Lochrane, of Georgia.

Not a Mock Marriage.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Solomon Weintal, son of a wealthy man in Hoboken, recently became infatuated with Miss Maggie Beihl, petite blonde, known on the variety stage as "Mlle. Blanche. Contrary to the general opinion of whores, he courted her, and the couple were clandestinely married by Justice Rusch, who performed the ceremony according to the laws of New Jersey.

After two weeks of wedded life, Mr. and Mrs. Weintal separated, the husband claiming he had been the victim of a mock marriage. He demanded from Justice Rusch the certificate of marriage, and he professed to be astonished when the Justice informed him that he was married for better or worse. Weintal then began a suit for absolute divorce.

The young woman denounces Weintal in bitter terms, and says that she would not have married him if she had known that he was a believer in the Hebrew faith.

Stories of Gilbert and Sullivan.

Hartford Courant.

Two drill stories have attained currency here about Gilbert and Sullivan. It appears that during the rehearsals of the new piece, "Pinafore," the female chorus singer was observed by Mr. Gilbert to be weeping bitterly and refusing to be comforted by her companion. Feeling interested he asked her the cause of her grief, but she rigidly refused to disclose it. All that he could learn from her was that she was the costumer of the chorus, and that she was in a state of nervous prostration or gravey. "But what did he say to you?" persisted Gilbert. "Oh! I never will repeat it," was the reply that came through the tears that almost choked her. "I will not allow any of my people to be insulted," said Mr. Gilbert, "and if you will tell me what was said, I will see that justice is done."

After considerable hesitation the girl said, "Well, sir, she—she told me I was no better than I should be!" "But you are, aren't you?" inquired Gilbert, with the most sympathetic smile. "Yes, I am," said the singer, with a smile. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is of Sullivan, who at one of the last rehearsals was annoyed by a bass singer in the chorus, who sang with such bad and dreary taste, that he signed with him. "My dear sir," exclaimed Sullivan to him, "to please keep time. You are putting all the others out!" "It is not me," exclaimed the chorister indignantly. "Excuse me, sir," replied Sullivan, with a smile, "I am not the author of this comedy. The other story is

DAILY NEWS

THURSDAY FEBRUARY 12, 1880.

Entered at the Postoffice at Raleigh, N. C. as second-class matter.

Weather Report.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.
For the South Atlantic States, increasing cloudiness and rain, southeast to south; winds, light to moderate, stationary or slightly less in intensity.

Index to New Advertisements.

O'NEIL & PLUMADORE.—Dissolution.

Local Briefs.

—Lent.

—Pleasant.

—Capital notes scarce.

—Look out for Valentines.

—Revenue receipts $1,563,40.

—Hon. John Manning is in the city.

—Remember the starving Irish tonight.

—Two more marriage licenses yesterday.

—Judge Seymour and lady are at the Yards.

—Mrs. Governor Jarvis is reported to be quite sick.

—The Legislature will not meet this winter, probably.

—The ladies are invited to Metropolitan Hall to-night.

—Something over two hundred bales sold yesterday.

—Be sure and attend the meeting at Metropolitan Hall to-night.

—Service was held at both the Episcopal churches yesterday.

—Commencement orators will be in demand in a few months.

—The Secretary of State received a fresh supply of Stationery yesterday.

—Dr. W. J. Hawkins is reported to be seriously ill at his residence near Ridgeway.

—Six more penitentiary convicts were sent up yesterday to work on the University Railroad.

—Only $5,000 dollars of old bonds received for exchange at the State Treasury yesterday.

—The firm of O'Neil & Plumadore has dissolved. See notice of dissolution in another column.

—Judge Gudger was engaged last night in hearing, at chambers, a habeas corpus case from Wilson county.

—He ate at telephone: "My dear, I shall not be home to tea." Said: "Oh, you brute, I smell your breath."

—Divine service to-day, and daily throughout the Lenten season at 10 a.m. and 3 p.m., at the Episcopal church.

—Mr. A. J. Rudes, formerly of the National at Raleigh, has leased the hotel at the Glen Alpine Springs for the coming season.

—The guard house was wide open yesterday. The Superior Court seems to have taken all the business from his honor, the Mayor.

—William Knabe & Co., 204 and 206 W. Baltimore street, Baltimore, have a letter addressed them in the post office, held for insufficient postage.

—The speech of Moses N. Amis, Esq., one of our recently licensed young baristers, delivered in the Superior Court yesterday is highly spoken.

—Major J. W. Wilson, President of the Western North Carolina Railroad, was born here, and died from this city yesterday by a telegram announcing the sickness of his daughter.

—Tuesday afternoon a trio of sportsmen from this city were out bird-hunting. They returned yesterday morning at 11 o'clock, having, in the meantime, killed one hundred and five quail.

—The anniversary of the two literary societies of Wake Forest College will be celebrated on Saturday, the 18th, special trials will leave this city in the afternoon for the accommodation of visitors from this city.

—Everybody who saw it thought the new Bank building was on fire last night, but it was only the Knights of Honor initiating some one. Don't suppose he had any affection of the heart, as we have not heard of any death from fright.

—The Board of Directors of the W. N. C. Railroad were given a splendid dinner yesterday by the Messrs. Street, proprietors of the National Hotel. The meal was well served and heartily enjoyed by the guests. The National is a popular resort for those who like to eat—and eat good things.

—The ladies of the Edenton street Methodist church will give an entertainment in Metropolitan Hall next week for the benefit of their church. Among the other attractions, pretty arias will be belted for, to be given to the physician, receiving the largest number of votes. All who attend are promised a good time.

—At Tucker hall Monday night, March 1st, Mr. Arthur L. Butt, so-called, of the Knights of Honor, will be the speaker. The telephones, it says: "This will do very well for sick people, but well people ought not to avail themselves of this lazy way of hearing the Gospel. In fact, the singing is as much a part of the world as the eating and drinking, and one could hardly sing by telephone, as we should pity the poor preacher that had to preach to empty benches and sounding telephones."

Metropolitan Hall To-Night.

At the request of a number of our Irish fellow-citizens a meeting of the citizens of Raleigh is called for to-night at Metropolitan Hall, for the purpose of organizing relief committees to canvass the city in behalf of "famine stricken Ireland."

A number of distinguished gentlemen will address the meeting.

The ladies are also respectfully invited.

B. C. MANLY.

Mayor.

Three Million Dollars for Ireland.

A dispatch to the News from London, received last night, states that baroness Burdett Coutts is to give a half million pounds for the relief of the starving Irish—nearly three million dollars. This should not discourage our citizens from contributing liberally to the relief to-night, for many millions more are necessary to alleviate their suffering.

Revolving Book Cases.

The best book case ever made is the "Johnson Revolving Book Case." It is so very popular that the manufacturers can scarcely supply the demand. Messrs. Alfred Williams & Co., have just received another supply and ask you to call and see them.

tion on this day, viz.: 46, 59, 61, 103, 128, 133, 134, 173, 177.

It is a great thing to have what it called service, and nothing contributes more to the power of physical control than that of Warner's Safe Novine. It also relieves all kinds of pain, and cures headache and neuralgia.

D. R. UPHORN,
Deputy Clerk.

Supreme Court.

Court opened at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. All the justices were present.

The case of the North Carolina Railroad Company et al. vs. Commissioners of Alamance county, from Alamance, the argument of which was commenced on Tuesday, was resumed, when the Court adjourned until 10 o'clock this (Thursday) morning.

Commercial News.

BY TELEGRAPH.

Reported by the Associated Press.

MARKET REPORT—SOON.

BALTIMORE, February 11.—Flour higher and active; lower grades; Hard wheat and western supplies; quality judgment.

State vs J. S. Bryant and Adolphus Cheek, affray; jury trial; verdict guilty.

State vs. Dr. John and Mary Ball, and A. D. defendant plead guilty; judgment suspended on payment of cost.

State vs. Len Stewart, removing crop; guilty; judgment reserved.

State vs. C. J. Jonnicone, false pretense; jury impanelled and pending the taking of testimony, the Court adjourned until 10 o'clock this (Thursday) morning.

Commercial News.

BY TELEGRAPH.

Reported by the Associated Press.

MARKET REPORT—SOON.

BALTIMORE, February 11.—Flour higher and active; lower grades; Hard wheat and western supplies; quality judgment.

State vs. Dr. John and Mary Ball, and A. D. defendant plead guilty; judgment suspended on payment of cost.

State vs. Len Stewart, removing crop; guilty; judgment reserved.

State vs. C. J. Jonnicone, false pretense; jury impanelled and pending the taking of testimony, the Court adjourned until 10 o'clock this (Thursday) morning.

Commercial News.

BY TELEGRAPH.

Reported by the Associated Press.

MARKET REPORT—SOON.

BALTIMORE, February 11.—Flour higher and active; lower grades; Hard wheat and western supplies; quality judgment.

State vs. Dr. John and Mary Ball, and A. D. defendant plead guilty; judgment suspended on payment of cost.

State vs. Len Stewart, removing crop; guilty; judgment reserved.

State vs. C. J. Jonnicone, false pretense; jury impanelled and pending the taking of testimony, the Court adjourned until 10 o'clock this (Thursday) morning.

Commercial News.

BY TELEGRAPH.

Reported by the Associated Press.

MARKET REPORT—SOON.

BALTIMORE, February 11.—Flour higher and active; lower grades; Hard wheat and western supplies; quality judgment.

State vs. Dr. John and Mary Ball, and A. D. defendant plead guilty; judgment suspended on payment of cost.

State vs. Len Stewart, removing crop; guilty; judgment reserved.

State vs. C. J. Jonnicone, false pretense; jury impanelled and pending the taking of testimony, the Court adjourned until 10 o'clock this (Thursday) morning.

Commercial News.

BY TELEGRAPH.

Reported by the Associated Press.

MARKET REPORT—SOON.

BALTIMORE, February 11.—Flour steady; quality judgment.

State vs. Dr. John and Mary Ball, and A. D. defendant plead guilty; judgment suspended on payment of cost.

State vs. Len Stewart, removing crop; guilty; judgment reserved.

State vs. C. J. Jonnicone, false pretense; jury impanelled and pending the taking of testimony, the Court adjourned until 10 o'clock this (Thursday) morning.

Commercial News.

BY TELEGRAPH.

Reported by the Associated Press.

MARKET REPORT—SOON.

BALTIMORE, February 11.—Flour steady; quality judgment.

State vs. Dr. John and Mary Ball, and A. D. defendant plead guilty; judgment suspended on payment of cost.

State vs. Len Stewart, removing crop; guilty; judgment reserved.

State vs. C. J. Jonnicone, false pretense; jury impanelled and pending the taking of testimony, the Court adjourned until 10 o'clock this (Thursday) morning.

Commercial News.

BY TELEGRAPH.

Reported by the Associated Press.

MARKET REPORT—SOON.

BALTIMORE, February 11.—Flour steady; quality judgment.

State vs. Dr. John and Mary Ball, and A. D. defendant plead guilty; judgment suspended on payment of cost.

State vs. Len Stewart, removing crop; guilty; judgment reserved.

State vs. C. J. Jonnicone, false pretense; jury impanelled and pending the taking of testimony, the Court adjourned until 10 o'clock this (Thursday) morning.

Commercial News.

BY TELEGRAPH.

Reported by the Associated Press.

MARKET REPORT—SOON.

BALTIMORE, February 11.—Flour steady; quality judgment.

State vs. Dr. John and Mary Ball, and A. D. defendant plead guilty; judgment suspended on payment of cost.

State vs. Len Stewart, removing crop; guilty; judgment reserved.

State vs. C. J. Jonnicone, false pretense; jury impanelled and pending the taking of testimony, the Court adjourned until 10 o'clock this (Thursday) morning.

Commercial News.

BY TELEGRAPH.

Reported by the Associated Press.

MARKET REPORT—SOON.

BALTIMORE, February 11.—Flour steady; quality judgment.

State vs. Dr. John and Mary Ball, and A. D. defendant plead guilty; judgment suspended on payment of cost.

State vs. Len Stewart, removing crop; guilty; judgment reserved.

State vs. C. J. Jonnicone, false pretense; jury impanelled and pending the taking of testimony, the Court adjourned until 10 o'clock this (Thursday) morning.

Commercial News.

BY TELEGRAPH.

Reported by the Associated Press.

MARKET REPORT—SOON.

BALTIMORE, February 11.—Flour steady; quality judgment.

State vs. Dr. John and Mary Ball, and A. D. defendant plead guilty; judgment suspended on payment of cost.

State vs. Len Stewart, removing crop; guilty; judgment reserved.

State vs. C. J. Jonnicone, false pretense; jury impanelled and pending the taking of testimony, the Court adjourned until 10 o'clock this (Thursday) morning.

Commercial News.

BY TELEGRAPH.

Reported by the Associated Press.

MARKET REPORT—SOON.

BALTIMORE, February 11.—Flour steady; quality judgment.

State vs. Dr. John and Mary Ball, and A. D. defendant plead guilty; judgment suspended on payment of cost.

State vs. Len Stewart, removing crop; guilty; judgment reserved.

State vs. C. J. Jonnicone, false pretense; jury impanelled and pending the taking of testimony, the Court adjourned until 10 o'clock this (Thursday) morning.

Commercial News.

BY TELEGRAPH.

&lt;p